SCHMITZ

that he lost $10,000 in Oroville. Wonders were predicted for the property. Rumors reached this city that everything from onyx to platinum had been discovered. But nothing except the rumors ever got up the shaft, and Schmitz next took his talents to the oil fields.

Eugene and his brother, Frank, organized the M. S. Drill Company, with a capital stock of $1,000,000, divided into shares of the par value of $1 each. This was later reorganized into the S. M. Drill Company with a capital stock of $2,500,000.

E. J. Kirwan, former jailer at Inglewood, was made field foreman of the company. About $33,000 was invested in the corporation by Schmitz and his brother. Twenty thousand dollars of this sum went into machinery, and the rest into development. The company owned no oil lands, but drilled for others under contracts. When the Government recently withdrew several millions of acres of oil lands from entry, locators welched on their contracts, and the M. S. Drill Company became a memory and a junk heap.

Schmitz also suffered when the Santa Cruz cement works of William J. Dingee proved a loss and were taken over by the owners. This was a double blow to Schmitz, for it compelled him to secure a bondsman in place of Dingee.

Now Schmitz will make a last effort to retrieve his wrecked fortunes. The land, consisting of 1,250,000 acres in Michoacan is said to bear many varieties of hardwood timber. It belongs to an English syndicate, and has been leased for fifteen years by a local association, of which Schmitz and his brother are members.

To get funds to engage in this venture Schmitz recently mortgaged his home for $12,000.

E. J. Kirwan, who is awaiting word in this city to follow the Schmitz brothers to Mexico, says the members of the association have raised between $18,000 and $20,000 to cover the cost of inspection and preliminary development. Kirwan says he has not been informed as to who are members of the association.

WHEN THE PANAMA CANAL IS FINISHED

"With the completion of the Panama Canal in sight, the effect of the opening of the canal on various parts of the country, and particularly the South and the Pacific Coast, is being widely discussed," says the Iron Trade Review. "The iron and steel industries of the Pacific Coast, and particularly of California, are much depressed at this time on account of the long-continued labor troubles and the high price of raw materials. With English, continental and Chinese foundry iron selling at San Francisco for $23 a ton, and southern No. 2 foundry at $21 to $22, together with the high cost of labor he must pay, the manufacturer in California has little chance of competing successfully with the Eastern manufacturer. Under the present conditions of freight transportation from the East to the Coast, the freight rate on southern No. 2 domestic foundry iron is between $10 and $11 a ton. With the completion of the Panama Canal this rate can be reduced to $4 or $5 on pig iron and on other raw materials in proportion. Southern No. 2 foundry iron can then be sold on the Pacific Coast at $15 to $16 a ton, with the same percentage of profit as at present. Consequently the cost of manufacturing iron and steel products will be reduced approximately 15 per cent, which will to some extent equalize the wage differential which the Coast manufacturer now pays over his Eastern competitor. Just what effect this will have as to stimulating activity on the Pacific Coast is hard to predict. Beyond a doubt the price of foreign pig iron will be reduced to meet the price of domestic iron. Though there is no adequate supply of coal or coking coal on the Pacific Coast, there is in abundance a good fuel oil which can be used very satisfactorily in the manufacture of steel. Electric smelting of pig iron is being actively taken up on the Coast, where unlimited water power is now going to waste. One significant fact is that the production as well as the consumption of iron and steel products will be greatly increased by the decrease in the cost of foundry iron as a result of a lower freight rate to the Coast."

THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

By latest advices from Lakeview No. 2 Oil Company, under date of May 26, No. 2 well is down 2,969 feet and it is expected that the string of 8 1/2 inch casing would be set the following week. The well will then be cemented and thirty days allowed for hardening. Drilling will be resumed about July 1 with the expectation of bringing the well within 300 feet. Everything is progressing smoothly in the field and the management is hoping for big results. I am leaving for the Coast by the Honolulu June 13, direct for the fields, and will be there when the well comes in and will cable The Star size and particulars of the gushers for the benefit of my stockholders. I have received instructions not to sell any more stock but will dispose of a limited number of shares on my own account before I sail. For quick action address J.
